GAS IS GOOD

IT IS GOING TO BE BETTER IN THE NEAR IMMEDIATENESS

The Star paid a visit Monday afternoon to the plant of the Ocala Gas Co., and found Manager Hunter and Foreman Wilkes resting a few minutes from a hard day's work.

A few months ago this plant was burned. It was burned so completely that only the retorts, tank and a few twisted pipes and charred timbers marked where it stood.

The conflagration was a great inconvenience to the town. It was two or three great inconveniences to the Star, which heats the metal for its linotype with gas.

One member of the Star staff, who sleeps in the building, lights the gas under the metal pot at 5 o'clock every morning. Then he goes back to bed for his beauty sleep. He has been lighting the said gas for seven years, and has the performance down so fine that he can go thru it without waking up.

One morning last summer, he arose and, sound asleep, trotted into the composing room, turned on the gas—he thought—struck a match and held it under the pot and listened for the soft explosion that would announce the gas had lit. Nary explosion. Then he woke up, tried to light it again, failed again, and observed that the "governor" was "dead." Stuck his nose to the vent to see if he could smell gas. Nary smell. Scooted downstairs to see if some darn fool had turned off the gas at the meter. No sign of any darn fool. Went to the phone. "Four-seven-eight."

"Want the gas plant?" said Central's dulcet accents.

"Yessum."

"It burned down this morning."

He has always wondered if Central heard the remark he couldn't help making.

The rest of the town was almost as badly upset as the Star, and didn't expect to have any gas for a month. But the gas men got themselves together and were supplying the fluid in less than seventy-two hours.

The gas company doesn't intend to be burned up or burned down anymore. All summer it has been doing business with no roof but the sky, except one little tin parasol, where Mr. Wilkes and his helpers retreat when it rains torrents.

The concrete foundations are now laid and everything is on the ground for a commodious metal building. It will cover everything that needs to be covered, and there will be nothing in it to burn. It will be up in a few days.

The pride of the plant is two big purifying tanks. They have just been put in and are working perfectly. Their capacity will be 150,000 feet a day.

The Star was shown sheets of cardboard, that showed the effect of before and after taking of these tanks on the gas. Before, the cardboard was considerably stained. After, it was absolutely clean.

All the improvements are made with a view to still further improvement as business increases. The plant can't be destroyed any more, and it can be enlarged and improved with rapidity and reasonable expense. The time is not far distant when there will be a big brick building; meantime the iron will be mighty efficacious.

PLEASANT EVENING

FOR THE K. OF P.

The K. of P. had a large attendance and a pleasant time at their "good of the order" meeting Monday evening. Fifty-three members were present, and the entire time was given up to short talks by the brethren. Nearly every member spoke, and all were enlightened and encouraged.

Ocala Lodge, K. of P., is old, well established and steadily growing. In the last two years it has taken in more new members than any other lodge in Ocala, and the process of addition shows no sign of slackening. It is a good home lodge and a splendid order to belong to, and the indications are that its power for usefulness will steadily increase as the years pass on and the city grows.

SALE OF BANKRUPT STOCK

Joe Malaver is Preparing to Put on Another Money-Saving Event

Mr. Joseph Malaver, who bought the bankrupt stock of L. W. Harley in the Ocala House block, has decided to have a great sale at the store and let the people of this section have these goods at prices that have never been heard of before in Ocala.

It is not often that this city has the opportunity of buying goods at a real bankrupt sale, but this is the real article and the large stock, which is all new and seasonable goods of a high class, will be offered in this sale. The sale commences Friday morning at 9 o'clock, when the doors of the store will be opened for the first time since it was closed by bankrupt proceedings several weeks ago.

Mr. Malaver bought the stock at a low figure, away down at less than half of what it cost to manufacture the goods. He will give the public the advantage of this bargain and throw the goods in the sale at veritable slaughter prices.

The stock consists of men's furnishings of all kinds, shoes, hats and suits of well known makes and brands. There is nothing old or shoddy in the stock—it is all new and fresh and some astounding bargains are going to be had there on Friday, the 9th, when the doors open.

Mr. L. W. Harley, who is familiar with the stock, has been employed by Mr. Malaver to assist at the sale and will be glad to see his old friends there.

Prior to Mr. Harley taking the store, Mr. Malaver owned and operated there one of the most popular businesses in the city under the name of the Guarantee Clothing and Shoe Company.

Watch and wait for the opening of the great Bankrupt Sale, Friday, October 9th, at 9 o'clock. Ocala House block, between Board of Trade and telegraph office.

IT HAS EVOLUTED

Marion County's Old Jail Building is Now an Institution of Mercy

It always affords the Star pleasure to observe efforts of the colored people to improve themselves. The better citizens they are, the more they do to elevate their race, the better it is for the white people, who should ever be their guides and helpers in the march of improvement.

Two members of the Star staff Monday had a look over the building which houses the colored hospital. This was for almost twenty years the Marion county jail. When a more up-to-date building took its place, it was overhauled and used for a time as the poorhouse. The county having dispensed with that institution, and the colored people desiring to start a hospital, the commissioners wisely allowed them to have it for that purpose.

It is a very good building; the principal objection to it being that some of the rooms are too close in hot weather. There are almost a score of rooms, however, and most of them are well lighted and ventilated, so unless the hospital becomes very much crowded the inferior rooms will not be in use. Even if they are, they will be tolerably good.

The operating room is well supplied with necessities and nobody will suffer from any lack of the essential in it. Some ten of the rooms—enough for present needs—are comfortably furnished; the others will be as needed. The kitchen is big, clean and well equipped. There are bathrooms on every floor. The entire building has been scrubbed and whitewashed until it is clean and wholesome.

Rev. G. B. Wilson is manager for the association of colored people who are supporting the hospital. Mrs. Synobly Simmons, a colored woman who has made an enviable reputation for industry and reliability, is the matron. She has two very efficient helpers, one a trained nurse from the colored hospital in Jacksonville. The hospital has the approval and much material assistance from the white physicians of the city, who have long recognized its need.
